- mixing bowls
- nonstick skillet
- small saucepan
- stirring spoon

Instructions

- 1 Using a strainer or colander, rinse the rice under cold, running water, then drain and transfer to a small saucepan. Add water and bring the mixture to a boil over high heat.
½ cup basmati rice
1 cup water
- 2 Once the liquid comes to a boil, stir the mixture, cover the saucepan, and reduce the heat to low. Cook the rice until the liquid is fully absorbed, 15-18 minutes. Once done, remove the rice from the heat and let it stand, still covered, for 5 minutes.
- 3 Meanwhile, wash and dry the fresh produce.
1 (1 inch) piece ginger root
2 green bell peppers
½ small bunch green onions (scallions)
- 4 Peel and mince ginger. Peel and mince garlic.
2 cloves garlic
- 5 Place soy sauce, oil, cornstarch, vinegar, and sugar in a small bowl; whisk to combine the sauce.
¼ cup soy sauce
1 tbsp toasted sesame oil
2 tsp cornstarch
1 ½ tsp rice vinegar
1 ½ tsp brown sugar
- 6 Seed and medium dice bell peppers.
- 7 Cut chicken thighs into ½-inch pieces.
1 lb chicken thighs, boneless skinless
- 8 Heat a large skillet over high heat.

9 Once the skillet is hot, add oil and swirl to coat the bottom.

1 tsp toasted sesame oil

10 Add chicken and stir-fry for 2-3 minutes. Add ginger, garlic, and bell peppers; continue to cook, stirring often, until veggies begin to soften, 2-3 more minutes.

11 Pour sauce into the skillet. Reduce heat to medium-high and cook, stirring often, until the sauce thickens, 4-5 minutes.

12 Meanwhile, trim green onions on a clean cutting board and cut crosswise into ¼-inch pieces.

13 Add cashews to the skillet and stir to combine.

¼ cup cashews, roasted unsalted

14 To serve, divide rice between bowls; top with chicken stir-fry and green onions. Enjoy!
